6. 4.2 What have you found to be the most useful argument?

16. 7.2 The OCP aims to make open contracting the new norm by 2022 - to achieve this they aim to build a field of open contracting champions and support providers. What do you believe is the most important service, product or resource that they should offer but which they currently do not?

17. 8.1 The OCP works to bring people together and share resources and experiences. To what extent has your interaction with the OCP helped you to connect with other organisations who support your work?

18. 8.2 Please give an example to explain your answer given to the previous question.

27. 12.3 Which was the most useful resource you have used, and why?

28. 12.4 What other resources, tools, guides and templates would you like the OCP to produce?

30. 13.2 Which two of the goals from the same list would you like the OCP to prioritise in the coming 12 months?

- Profile open contracting efforts and celebrate progress made so far
- Develop a shared understanding of the key gaps in the open contracting field, and the solutions needed to address them
- Promote concrete activities to deliver collaborative, innovative and impactful engagements in advocacy
- Provided specific tools and resources to deepen and accelerate the implementation of open contracting, including country and sector-specific products
- Connect organisations to others who are working on open contracting issues, to encourage peer learning and exchange
- Learned from previous successes and mistakes

31. 14. To what extent do you agree with the following statements?
